Radio Broadcasting In Canada

The Canadian Government recently appointed a Royal Commission to study and make report on the whole subject of radio broadcasting in Canada. That commission, headed by Sir John Aird, is at present in Europe studying the methods employed in Great Britain and some of the continental countries. It proposes to also study the methods followed in the United States, and later, will hold public sittings throughout Canada with a view to obtaining the opinions of Canadian citizens.

The importance of this Commission's work can hardly be overestimated. It is in a few years to come to occupy a vital position in the lives of the people, while the future possibilities of this newest form of entertainment and its importance as a means of publicity, are such that the national interest demands that a well defined policy in the interests of all concerned, but more particularly in the interests of the Dominion itself, be developed with the least possible delay.

The question that naturally arises in the minds of patriotic Canadians is whether or not the radio in Canada is to be dominated by wealthy and powerful private interests in the United States, just as the moving picture business has been, or whether Canada will itself develop an acceptable system of national broadcasting.

It has to be recognized and accepted as a fact that the great United States moving picture corporations control the situation in Canada, if not through actual ownership and management of the picture theatres, at least through the making and distribution of the films that are shown in this country. There can be no successful defeat of the assertion that because of this control of films it is possible for the picture companies, through the making and distribution of the films, to control the minds of the people, and thus to influence the course of events in the country. It is a fact that the picture companies, through the making and distribution of the films, to control the minds of the people, and thus to influence the course of events in the country.

To a large extent, the same situation has developed through the enormous concentration which United States magazines and periodicals of all kinds have secured in Canada. The result is that the picture companies, through the making and distribution of the films, to control the minds of the people, and thus to influence the course of events in the country.

In Great Britain, radio broadcasting is under the direction of the Government, through the British Broadcasting Corporation. The Corporation, receiving state pay a license fee, and the money thus realized is expended in providing worthwhile programmes. In the United States, on the other hand, broadcasting is in the hands of private interests. Good programmes are naturally produced, but they are paid for through advertising. This method of financing has resulted in the production of programmes of a low standard, and in the case of the United States, the programmes are often of a low standard, and in the case of the United States, the programmes are often of a low standard.

It is the opinion of the writer that in the United States, the programmes are often of a low standard, and in the case of the United States, the programmes are often of a low standard. It is the opinion of the writer that in the United States, the programmes are often of a low standard, and in the case of the United States, the programmes are often of a low standard.

Furthermore, the Canadian people prefer private control of radio broadcasting, financed on the basis of advertising, to the system which is in vogue in Great Britain. The Canadian people prefer private control of radio broadcasting, financed on the basis of advertising, to the system which is in vogue in Great Britain.

The question of radio must be decided. It already occupies a position along with the newspaper and the moving picture as a medium of information and a source of entertainment. It is here, and ready to stay, to grow, to develop, and to become a powerful force in the life of the people. Canada's Climate Attractive

Even Winter Weather is Enjoyed by Majority of People

The Montreal Star says: "It has been the fashion for many years to say that Canada is a cold country. The habit has persisted, despite the fact that the climate, which probably presents the best latitude in contrast to any country in the world, is not so cold. But just now Europe is having a taste of what a really hard winter can be, and the fact that the climate is not so cold is being recognized. The climate is not so cold is being recognized. The climate is not so cold is being recognized."
